Instead, allow your friendship to evolve naturally. Article Summary X To decide if your friend is a true friend, consider whether you can speak openly around them and if they care enough about you to pay attention to what you say.

Having an active social life can bolster your immune system and help reduce stress. And so do many of you. If you need help, a good friend will try to help you. For others, it's smaller gestures that loom large – the friend who talks for hours when you're feeling alone, even if it means going over on his cell phone minutes; the one who helps you with your homework, even when she hasn't done her own; or the friend who helps you search for your retainer, even when it means going through the garbage from the school lunch.

Are they giving anything back? It will often deepen the bond between you. Take a class or join a club to meet people with common interests, such as a book group, dinner club, or sports team.
